JDW: Today's WxPost carries the AP story on yesterday's release of the Church CIA report. In length this account is about half of what AP had on the B wire, which I have from the local paper. The editing introduced incomprehensibility, it was cut that much. This was in the area of competition with other intelligence agencies. I'm sure that what happened there, of a political nature and very important in the Cold War and subsequent CIA orientation, was not investigated by the committee. The Post could have picked it up from its own morgue. Instead it cut to incomprehensibility. Nothing like a free press! I was caught up in that operation. It was the one in which I had to organize the others to fight back. We saved our games only. HW 6/7/76
